Gaga's Facebook posse eclipses Obama's, sets record

From news services

For Lady Gaga, there's a whole lot of "like" in the world—at least when it comes to Facebook, where the pop star has become the first living person to rack up 10 million fans.

"Thank you so much for all of your love and your support and for sticking by me through the fame, and 'The Fame Monster,'" Gaga says in a black-and-white video posted Friday on her Facebook page. She's currently on tour, hitting Madison Square Garden for three shows starting Tuesday night. The same tour brings her to Chicago later this summer for an appearance at Lollapalooza.

And her following is unquestioned—her Facebook fan numbers surpassed even President Obama's on June 25, according to USA Today.

Another day, another fake Twitter account

Reuters

MOSCOW President Dmitry Medvedev's embrace of Twitter has spawned a new twist in Russia's rich tradition of political humour: a mock account lampooning the tech-savvy leader and his uphill battle to modernize the nation.

Medvedev

Just days after Medvedev sent his first tweet from Twitter's offices in California last month, an account called KremlinRussia appeared—and swiftly drew almost 1,500 followers.

By Monday it featured 130 tweets, most of them reacting to entries from Medvedev's KremlinRussia page.

Although mock accounts such as these are common in the West, Russian media outlets are subject to state pressure and street protests often are broken up by police. That leaves the Internet as one of the few viable outlets for free expression and government criticism.

Medvedev's June visit to San Francisco and Silicon Valley was part of a campaign to promote innovation in Russia's economy and reduce its reliance on energy exports.

Several of the mock account's entries predicted, playfully but pointedly, that the Kremlin's modernization efforts are doomed by Russian bureaucracy and corruption.

"One needs to understand that money given to modernization and innovation will be spent on corruption and swindling," one tweet said.

The Kremlin shrugged off the affront.

A Kremlin representative, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Medvedev's administration does not plan to take action to eliminate the account.

"I think sober people are able to distinguish between the real account and an [impostor]," the representative said.

RIDER'S BLOCK

My pledge to ride every CTA bus line continues. I rode the No. 65-Grand last week and boiled my review down to a tweet. Check out photos at redeyechicago.com/busride.

Wade watch: Did he ride the CTA?

Add this to the growing list of rumors surrounding NBA free agent Dwyane Wade's visit last week to Chicago: He reportedly rode the Blue Line on Sunday, possibly to O'Hare.

A Going Public reader said he spotted Wade at the Jackson stop on the Red and Blue lines with two kids and a man. Wade returned to Miami on Monday morning after spending the last few days meeting with the Bulls, The Associated Press reported.

He flew out of O'Hare the week before, the Miami Herald reported.

Wade, a Chicagoland native whose mother and two kids live in the area, is probably no stranger to the CTA. But with Miami and New York also pulling out all the stops for Wade, is the Blue Line the best face for Chicago?

If Wade did take the Blue Line from the Jackson stop to O'Hare, he may have listened to a performer at the Jackson stop, one of the few places buskers can sing on the CTA.

His train would have rumbled along on elevated tracks through Wicker Park, which has starred in films such as "High Fidelity," "Michael," "Mad Dog & Glory" and "Red Heat."

As the train wound through the Northwest Side, Wade could have watched the cars crawl along the Kennedy Expressway and have been grateful he chose to take the CTA instead of sitting in pull-out-your-hair traffic.

Or he could have fought for a place to sit on the train because some tourist felt her luggage deserved an entire row of seats. He could have listened to a gaggle of suburbanite girls loudly discuss their plans to storm Navy Pier. Or some schlug coming from the Taste of Chicago could have stunk up Wade's car with turkey legs.

Perhaps the latter scenario is more likely. But if Chicago is desperate to get Wade, maybe the CTA should ensure there is never a slow zone again on the Blue Line. Maybe the Jackson tunnel between the Blue and Red lines should always smell like clean laundry. And maybe Chicago should take a page from Miami officials, who renamed Miami-Dade County "Miami-Wade County" until Thursday.

"D"-TA, anyone?

Circuit permits expiration postponed

CTA riders with disabilities enrolled in the state's circuit-breaker program for free rides can use their current transit cards until Saturday even though the cards were supposed to expire last week. An RTA spokeswoman said there was a problem with card production, which delayed the mailing of thousands of cards. Riders with disabilities who do not receive their cards by Wednesday should call the RTA's customer service center at 312-913-3113.

VIOLENT FOURTH

3 KILLED, DOZEN INJURED IN SHOOTINGS OVER HOLIDAY WEEKEND

Chicago Tribune

Chicago police dealing with what's typically the city's most violent month spent Monday investigating three separate shooting deaths in a six-hour span of the holiday weekend.

At least a dozen people were shot and sent to hospitals overnight Sunday; police said the violence was not related to the holiday.

Police described the overnight hours after Independence Day as "busy" and "hot." Three men in their 30s died in another round of gun violence.

About 10:25 p.m. Sunday, police found 34-year-old Jerry Seals with a gunshot wound to his head in the 6200 block of South Laflin Street in Englewood. Seals was pronounced dead about a half hour later.

Less than a mile away shortly before 1 a.m. Monday, Andrew Hardrick, 37, and another man, 36, were shot at while riding in a vehicle in the 6400 block of South Paulina Avenue, police said. Hardrick, who was hit in the neck, was pronounced dead on the scene. The other man was taken to Advocate Christ Medical Center in Oak Lawn.

And just after 5 a.m. Monday, DeShawn McNeil, 35, died after being shot in the face and chest while in an alley in the 7900 block of South Ingleside Avenue in East Chatham.

One shooting victim at first thought he'd been hit by an errant firecracker. The shooting took place around 3:06 a.m. in South Chicago.

In addition, police said an officer shot a male suspect who fired a shot in the air then pointed the gun at him and at least one other officer. The uniformed officers had been trying to disperse a large crowd in the 100 block of North Leamington Avenue early Monday, police said.

Meanwhile, arrests were down from a year ago during the city's revamped fireworks display, which involved three shows along the lakefront, Chicago police said Monday.

Police Supt. Jody Weis said there were seven arrests Sunday night. Last year, there were 30 arrests during the fireworks show at Grant Park.

In all, 1,000 police officers fanned out to cover the 26 miles of lakefront Sunday.

Police seize $1.5M in heroin, $5M in cash

Police recovered more than $5 million in cash and the year's largest heroin stash at a Northwest Side home, officials said Monday. Officers found 10 kilograms of heroin with a value of $1.5 million at the home on the 2500 block of North Kildare Avenue.

Jogger dies on lakefront

A man in his 40s died while jogging along the lake Monday, police said. He was found unconscious on the 4700 block of Lake Shore Drive at about 1 p.m., when temperatures peaked at 89 degrees.

Quinn signs bike law

Gov. Pat Quinn signed legislation into law Monday that his office says will better protect bicyclists in the state. The League of Illinois Bicyclists said one bill will establish new penalties for motorists who unnecessarily crowd bicyclists.

Edens project still a go

Despite a strike by construction workers, the Edens Spur resurfacing project is scheduled to begin Tuesday, making the commute extra challenging because the 5-mile roadway will be reduced from two lanes to one in each direction.

3 lanes collapse on L. Shore Drive

Three of four lanes of southbound Lake Shore Drive near Roosevelt Road caved in Monday evening, police said. Around 6:15 p.m., three lanes buckled and collapsed, Police News Affairs Officer Daniel O'Brien said. There were no injuries, he said.

THE DEFENDANT

Peterson maintains his innocence, but winning his freedom won't be easy. He must overcome a prosecution that will paint him as a sadistic ex-husband hellbent on stopping Savio from getting a cut of his police pension.

Peterson, 56, has been in Will County jail since charges were filed against him last year. Though he cracked jokes in the days after his arrest, he has appeared much more subdued in recent court appearances.

Looking grayer and heavier since his arrest, he no longer plays to the spectators and reporters in the courtroom like he once did. Still, his occasional joking with his lawyers and courtroom security officers irks Stacy's family.

"He understands what he's up against," family spokeswoman Pam Bosco said. "He understands the seriousness."

Peterson is active in his defense but not overbearing, his attorney Joseph Lopez said. During a hearsay hearing earlier this year, for example, he was complimented by one of his attorneys for instructing him to ask an expert witness if scratch marks on Savio's arms could have been made by her cat. The witness replied it was possible.

The Drew Peterson case

Love him or hate him, Drew Peterson's day has finally come.

Nearly three years after the disappearance of his fourth wife, Stacy, made national headlines, the retired Bolingbrook police sergeant will go on trial Thursday for the death of his third wife, Kathleen Savio.

Here are the people who will be front and center as the courtroom drama unfolds. TRIBUNE

THE JUDGE

Without a single juror picked, Judge Stephen White already has made history.

White, 62, became the first Illinois judge to hold a hearing under the new hearsay law, a controversial statute that allows some types of second-hand testimony at trial. It was a daunting task, given he had no road map to follow and the entire legal community watching.

"I don't think he struggled with it at all," said attorney Andrew Abood, who represented Peterson during the hearsay hearing but later left the defense team. "I think he's really smart. He gets it. It's obvious he's a former trial lawyer because he understands the law."

With an affable demeanor and a penchant for smiling as he overrules objections, White often diffuses tensions in his courtroom.

THE DEFENSE

This is lead defense attorney Joel Brodsky's first murder trial, but the Chicago lawyer recently surrounded himself with crack criminal defenders after half his legal team left the case this year, citing conflicts. Abood told the Tribune he left because he didn't think the case was winnable with "Joel playing a significant role."

In response, Peterson sent a one-page, handwritten letter to the Tribune last week—his first comments to the press since 2009—in which he praised his attorneys and downplayed any suggestion that his defense had been hampered by the recent shakeup.

"[It] turned out to be a blessing in disguise with Joel Brodsky assembling the finest team I have ever seen in my thirty-two years in law enforcement," Peterson wrote in the rare jailhouse letter. "I feel safe with my life in their hands."

THE PROSECUTORS

While they may be as publicly reticent as their counterparts are gabby, the legal team prosecuting Peterson includes its own cast of characters, including a former judge, a financial whiz with a biology degree and a rising star just seven years out of law school.

They are led by State's Attorney James Glasgow, a longtime prosecutor who has dubbed Peterson a "hideous B-movie stalker."

Glasgow most recently took the helm in 2004, after Savio drowned in her bathtub, and hasn't been shy about criticizing his predecessor's handling of the case.

The task prosecutors face is a tough one: convincing jurors beyond a reasonable doubt that Savio was murdered—despite her death first being ruled accidental by a coroner's jury—and then that Peterson killed her, even with no physical evidence or eyewitnesses linking him to her death.

Eating champ busted

6 NEW YORK

With only a sandwich and a glass of milk to fill his legendary stomach after a night in jail, one-time hot dog champ Takeru Kobayashi walked out of court Monday declaring, "I'm hungry!"

Kobayashi was released on his own recognizance a day after he rushed the stage at the annual Nathan's Hot Dog Eating Contest, a competition that he had been barred from this year because of a contract dispute with organizer Major League Eating.

Meeting with reporters after his hearing, he said, "I went as a spectator to cheer on my friends, and everyone was yelling 'let him eat,' so I was hoping they would let me eat and prove I am still the champ."

After rushing the stage Sunday in a T-shirt that read "Free Kobi," Kobayashi was surrounded by police and taken away charged with resisting arrest, trespassing and obstruction of governmental affairs.

Kobayashi says the eating contest had placed more restrictions on him this year and he was protesting those restrictions. He says he couldn't even eat "quickly publicly" as a result. Kobayashi will be back in court Aug. 5.

MEET THE JERKS MESSING UP SUMMER SPORTS IN CHICAGO

By Tracy Swartz

REDEYE

The postings on the Chicago Sport and Social Club website read like personals ads: "I'm 5'9, left-handed and quick."

"I can play every day but Tuesday and am very reliable."

"I'm interested mostly in recreation and meeting new people/having fun. I like to go out for drinks afterwards."

In a way, joining a summer rec league team can be a lot like finding love. Wannabe players often post their interests and experience on a league website and wait for team managers or other players to contact them. Sometimes sparks fly and they continue with the team for multiple seasons; other times, it's not a match made in heaven.

"It's a mixed bag; you don't know what you're going to get," said Brian Irving, senior operations manager for Chicago Sport and Social Club, which oversees dozens of leagues. "They're not all going to get along, but they're going to come to a goal of making a team happen."

Rec league organizers and players said there often are a few fools on every team who prevent the team from jelling. As some leagues gear up for action, Red-Eye presents its list of the five jerks you don't want on your rec league team because they don't play well with others or they don't play at all.

Though these characters can cause headaches, Irving said they make the rec leagues fun: "You need something to talk about after the game."

TSWARTZ@TRIBUNE.COM

Poor Sport

He doesn't see these sports as "recreation." These are must-win situations. He whines about every loss, and takes it personally. He wants everyone to practice every single day, and forget about fraternizing with the other team after the game. He won't allow it.

"You will get your people out there, occasionally, who are poor sports," said Ben Stephens, who manages the softball, kickball, basketball, football and broomball (a combination of soccer and hockey on ice) leagues for Sports Monster. "They have to win everything and don't really care about anything else."

Dave Church, 30, said he started playing rec league volleyball and soccer in Chicago only this year but already he's seen poor sports.

"At least like, once a game, someone has to say, 'Hey, c'mon it's a social league,'" said Church, of Lakeview. "You get guys who push people around."

The Flake

He promises to come but then never shows up—week after week. Sometimes he has an excuse and sometimes he doesn't. But he makes the team captain struggle for a replacement.

"Teams sort of assimilate and form into little mini-cults," Matt Golden, co-owner of North Center's Black Rock Pub and Kitchen, which runs summer softball and kickball leagues. "We'll always have the Abercrombie team and the ... burnout team. Abercrombie team is athletic over-achievers. Burnouts don't win a game, don't care."

And many of these "mini-cults" have their Mr. No-Shows, Golden said. "All of a sudden they have weddings every week. That's definitely a problem."

Kevin Kelly, 41, who has been captain of his softball team for 10 years, said he's seen a lot of guys and girls join rec teams looking for love, not wins.

"You get the people who are out there to date. If they don't like any girls on the team, guess who quits," said Kelly, of Old Town. "They don't show up to the game, and they don't show up to the bar."

The Wallflower

She really doesn't want to be here. Her boyfriend or friends made her come, but she's not that into sports. She'd rather be at brunch or cheering on the sidelines. When it's time to call a play, she's MIA. The ball is her enemy, and so is the person who forced her to sign up.

Rec league owners said a lot of their new players are people who just moved to Chicago and are looking to make new friends through team camaraderie, but they're not hard-core about sports. "You do get people who are really shy and really quiet and aren't as socially forward. They don't want to rock the boat," Irving said. "It's a feeling-out process. They want to have the once-a-week-outlet but maybe they're not interested in that sport."

Kelly, who considers himself the "old guy who never retires" from recreational sports because he's been playing them in Chicago for 10 years, said he tends to see wallflowers in volleyball leagues.

"They'll say, 'I'll be your requirement extra girl in the corner if you need me,'" Kelly said. "But at least you're out there, right?"

The Chucker

Think George Costanza, who in one episode of "Seinfeld" was derided for throwing up the basketball any chance he gets. If he doesn't shoot, he can't score, but he doesn't pay attention to team strategy or rhythm. Irving said often, players think their skills are top-notch, and everyone else can't play to their level. Many times, Irving said, these players overstate their game.

"Our soccer leagues are hysterical," Irving said. "It's almost like little kids playing. They think they have to kick it as soon as they get the ball instead of dribbling or passing it ... 'Someone's given me the ball and I'm going to do something with it.'"

The Ball Hog

This glory hound played sports in high school. Lots of them. In fact, he was the star quarterback/point guard/pitcher. Everyone remembers him as a legend on the team, and he won't let you forget it. And because he's such a superstar, he thinks he should have the ball—at all times. He doesn't pass or assist because you can't spell "team" without "me."

Irving said he's seen a lot of ball hogs in his 13 years with the Chicago Sport and Social Club. In fact, Irving recently received an e-mail from one of the league's basketball players complaining about ball hogs.

The player complained that people aren't sharing enough in rec leagues, and that passing is a key element of the game. The e-mail even included a drawing that the player hoped the Sport and Social Club would distribute to all players in the league.

The picture, which is titled "Passing is like magic," shows two groups of stick figures. The first team has a ball hog, who won't pass the ball. One of the stick figures is crying as a result. The second team is a team of passers. Everyone is smiling.

Sign and thrive

So you want to join a rec league but you don't know. Several organizations still have open registration for their summer leagues and events. Here are a few at the top of their game. T.S.

BLACK ROCK PUB & KITCHEN LEAGUES

blackrockbar.com/pages/groups.html

The North Center bar is one of a few local pubs that offer rec leagues (with drink specials at the bar afterward). Black Rock has a summer softball league that began last month and a kickball league that starts in August, pub co-owner Matt Golden said. Both leagues attract about 100 people each.

CHICAGO SPORT AND SOCIAL CLUB

chicagosportandsocialclub.com

The club, which boasts more than 70,000 annual participants, offers leagues ranging from card games (Euchre) to bowling to the traditional beach volleyball and basketball. There's a message board on the site where potential players can search for teams and offer their skills.

PLAYERS SPORTS GROUP

playerssports.net

The group, which says it sees more than 43,000 players annually, has about a dozen leagues, including indoor soccer, tennis and kickball. Registration is first come, first served, but Players Sports warns on its website that many of its leagues sell out quickly with existing teams.

SPORTS MONSTER

sportsmonster.net

The Chicago outpost for this national organization offers about a dozen sports leagues, including bags, go-deep football and golf. Players can register as an individual, with a friend or as a team.

1 Who's going to break the LeBron James news?	If LeBron stays in Cleveland, it'll be Craig Ehlo—redemption for getting schooled by M.J.	You didn't hear? He retired and is opening a franchise of gyms called "Bron's house of Brawn."	LeBron's uncle's friend's younger brother's accountant's roommate's hairstylist. On Twitter.	If I say "Delonte West's girl-friend," does that make me a bad person?	Stephen A. Smith, on a repeat appearance on "The View," will try, but Joy Behar will beat him to it.
2 Which NBA team is getting squat in free agency?	The Minnesota Timberwolves. Any team that signs Darko Milicic gets a whole pile of squat.	The Seattle SuperSonics. (What, too soon?)	Who's this Squat guy? Oh, great, another player I have to read about for months.	The Seattle SuperSonics.	Bwahahaha—how long have you lived in this town? The Bulls, of course. Payback for the Hawks winning.
3 What headline do you want to read about NBA free agents next?	"Phil Jackson takes Bulls assistant post."	"NBA free agents to rest of USA: 'Um ... you guys know that oil spill is still going, right?'"	"NBA rules suspended: Free-agency signings to be decided by spirited game of Boggle."	"Source: We've been making stuff up for a month."	That LeBron has made up his freakin' mind already. How hard can this be, LeBron?
4 How do you congratulate a Chicago baseball all-star?	With a book to read while he's stuck in L.A. traffic.	By laughing hard and then saying, "wait, you're serious?"	If it's Marlon Byrd, the only reward he needs is a break from Cubs games.	Sing "Surfin' Bird" at full volume three inches from his face until he snaps.	By asking him to DVR the game so the Cubs can see what real baseball looks like.
5 What's the worst thing about crashing in the Tour de France?	It's nowhere near as cool as saying you survived an Indy 500 crash.	What's the Tour de France?	Having to borrow someone else's bike shorts after yours were destroyed.	Keeping anti-doping officials away from your bloody scrapes. I said it.	I'm going to go out on a limb and guess it's when the wet cobblestones rip off giant patches of your skin.

Clearing up

LeBron James hasn't announced where he's going, but other free agents falling into place

RedEye

Two down, too many to go.

While the NBA and holding-their-breath Bulls fans know where coveted free agents Joe Johnson and Amare Stoudemire likely are headed, it's still a mystery where LeBron James, Dwyane Wade, Chris Bosh and others end up. After a flurry of meetings and negotiations, the big guns stayed mostly silent during the Fourth of July weekend.

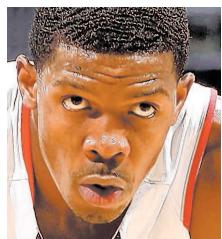

Here's the latest on the free agent class of 2010. TRIBUNE CONTRIBUTED

Chris Bosh

He met with the Bulls in Chicago but was back at his Dallas-area home Saturday and tweeted Monday that he still was hanging out with his family during the long weekend. The thinking goes that Bosh will follow James or Wade to a team once a decision from one of them is in hand.

Joe Johnson

On Sunday, Joe Johnson's agent said the star will stay with the Hawks, writing on the Huffington Post website that Johnson "announced his intention to re-sign with the Hawks for six more years." The deal reportedly is worth $119 million.

LeBron James

LeBron James took a break from his whirlwind courtship to get back on the basketball court. The NBA's most wanted man made a surprise appearance Monday at his Nike Skills Academy to work out as the sports world awaits his decision on where he'll play next season. It has been reported that James will wait until after the camp's conclusion Wednesday to make a decision about his future.

Amare Stoudemire

According to a multitude of media reports, Stoudemire has agreed to join the New York Knicks. Stoudemire's agent, Happy Walters, said the deal is for the maximum allowed, which would be nearly $100 million over five years. "I feel great about being a pioneer and showing my leadership," he said at Madison Square Garden.

Dwyane Wade

After meeting with the Bulls over the weekend, Wade flew back to Miami on Monday. The Fort Lauderdale Sun-Sentinel learned late Sunday that Wade will meet this week with Heat owner Micky Arison and said the two were spotted together Monday at American Airlines Arena. Wade also met with the team's recruiting party last week in Chicago, agent Henry Thomas said in what was described as an exchange of pleasantries.

» Lance Armstrong and several other Tour de France contenders were caught up in a series of crashes Monday during a rain-splattered second stage won by new race leader Sylvain Chavanel of France. Armstrong is fifth overall.

» Former Blackhawks forward Bob Probert, 45, died Monday after collapsing on a boat, multiple media outlets reported. According to the Windsor Star, Probert's father-in-law, Dan Parkinson, said Probert collapsed after suffering "severe chest pain" while boating on Lake St. Clair with his children, Parkinson and his mother-in-law.

10 to-do's before the end of the season

By Metromix staff

Every summer you vow to attend more festivals, spend more time outdoors and generally make up for all of those hours lost to cold, dark winter months. But with so much to do, you always seem to overlook a few essentials. This year, use our bucket list as your guide to make sure you won't have any regrets come fall.

LISA ARNETT, LISA BALDE, MATT PAIS, REBECCA PALMORE AND M. KATHLEEN PRATT ARE METROMIX PRODUCERS.

SUMMER BUCKET LIST

- Upgrade from fro-yo. Stand in line (with the rest of the neighborhood) on a balmy evening and wait your turn for a silky scoop at Black Dog Gelato (859 N. Damen Ave.) in Ukrainian Village.
- Run down dessert. Triangulate the position of the Flirty Cupcakes truck via Twitter and Facebook, then move in and nab a box of minis.
- Sip an expertly crafted cocktail. Choose a seasonal cocktail from the new summer list at Wicker Park lounge the Exchange (1270 N. Milwaukee Ave.). We're drooling over the Honey Lavender Fizz made with lavender-infused Death's Door gin.
- Have a midnight picnic. Ward off a hangover with a hydrating late-night limeade and greasy-delicious tacos de panza from the walk-up window at Big Star (1531 N. Damen Ave.).
- Sniff out a new fest. Shake it at Boulevard Bash, arriving in Logan Square on Friday (continuing through Sunday) with headlining acts Waco Brothers, Smoking Popes and Yourself and the Air. Logan Boulevard and Milwaukee Avenue.
- Take in outdoor theater. Catch a free rare collaboration between the Goodman Theatre and Grant Park Orchestra: "Memory of Fire / Memoria del Fuego" on Wednesday as part of the Latino Theatre Fest. Pritzker Pavilion, 201 E. Randolph St.
- Spice up your lunch routine. Sneak out of the office after 2 p.m., when there's finally a lull in the crowd at Xoco (449 N. Clark St.), and have a leisurely late lunch outdoors on the new sidewalk cafe.
- Grab some shade. Hide out in Curio, the cool, dark basement lounge below Gilt Bar (230 W. Kinzie St.), on a day when it's just too darn hot to sun yourself on a patio.
- Support a local artist at a big-time music fest. Arrive early at Lilith Fair on July 17 to see Chicago singer Katie Todd get a chance at stardom, thanks to her victory in a local talent search. First Midwest Bank Amphitheatre, 19100 Ridgeland Ave.
- Start a baseball tradition. Grab a beer and burger at the new Cork & Kerry at the Park (3258 S. Princeton Ave.) before heading to a White Sox game.

read more @ lipstickmystic.com

Leo July 23-Aug. 22

You're generally a positive person, but even you need to get things off your chest once in a while. Communicator Mercury is encouraging you to speak up. You no longer can tolerate your girlfriend's neurotic poodle or your guy's dirty dishes. Talk about it.

Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22

Venus is helping you move forward in the romantic department. That hottie you've been dying to date is single again. That cutie you've been crushing on is starting to notice that you're alive. Things are looking up.

Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23

The solar eclipse is hitting you over the head with sudden insights. At last, you realize that you need to stop dating girls who remind you of your mother. Finally, you're aware that looking for a rich man to marry is a waste of time in this economy.

Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 21

You're in one of your lazy, sensual moods. All you want to do is to curl up in bed with your partner and stay there. You've been having tons of sexual fun, and you can't bear the thought of dealing with work, life, etc. The moon says you still have to.

Sagittarius Nov. 22-Dec. 21

A moon opposition has you tallying up all your lovers' shortcomings. You're obsessing about how one of your exes was crazy, another one was broke and another one was both crazy and broke. Stop reliving the past. Pessimism doesn't become you.

Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19

Someone might propose an intriguing partnership with you. This could be a business relationship, a sexual union or a bit of both. Whatever it is, Saturn is making it tempting. Think outside the box and consider this alternative arrangement.

Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 18

You could be attracted to someone who is more financially stable than you. While you live in a tent eating soup made out of old boot leather, your guy or girl is living in an expensive condo. The moon says this might be love.

Pisces Feb. 19-March 20

So your last girlfriend was a psycho or your ex-boyfriend had multiple felonies. You have a big heart, and that gets you into occasional trouble. But the sun is reminding you that even you can change unhealthy relationship patterns.

Aries March 21-April 19

You could enjoy a hot fling with a long-distance friend, courtesy of Mercury. You'll be attracted to people who live far enough away that you can maintain a certain mystique with them. You don't want them to know all your secrets, do you?

Taurus April 20-May 20

Someone from your extended social circle might be madly in love with you. A former employee still has the hots for you. An old neighbor wishes you'd move back to the same neighborhood. Pluto is creating a soap opera.

Gemini May 21-June 21

A work situation is requiring more of your attention as Jupiter helps you improve your cash flow. Meanwhile, your current lover could be acting needier than ever. This might be a good time to "take a break," as they say.

Co-star chemistry fills 'Warehouse'

show patrol

CURT WAGNER
cwwagner@tribune.com

When "Warehouse 13" debuted last summer, it became Syfy's most successful series ever, drawing an average of 4.1 million viewers each week.

A big reason for that success is the chemistry between the main characters, Secret Service agents Pete Lattimer and Myka Bering, and the actors who play them, Eddie McClintock and Joanne Kelly.

When Season 2 begins at 8 p.m. Tuesday, serious Myka and joker Pete still get on each other's nerves, especially when Pete's flirtations with a British woman distract him from the task at hand, stopping their nemesis MacPherson (Roger Rees), who blew up the top-secret storage warehouse that holds every mysterious and powerful artifact ever collected by the U.S. government.

After talking to Kelly and McClintock, you get the idea that their relationship isn't much different than that of their odd couple characters.

"This is kind of mine and Joanne's relationship in a nutshell," McClintock told me during a phone interview. "I said, 'Do you ever want to [bleeping] strangle me because I can never take anything seriously?' And she goes, 'All the time. I want to stab you in the eye with a pencil.'

"She goes, 'But if you weren't the way you are, we wouldn't have such a great friendship.'"

According to Kelly, she and McClintock are similar to their characters.

"I'm very focused at work and very practical and very problem solving, and that is who Myka is," she said. "And Eddie is 5 years old."

Did you miss the Season 1 finale of "Warehouse 13"? Syfy will re-air it at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

Trivia time

Saul Rubinek and Allison Scagliotti came to Chicago last week to talk about the new season of "Warehouse 13," in which their characters, Artie and Claudia, try to "snag, bag and tag" bizarre artifacts with special powers. They even spotted a possible artifact in the Windy City. "Well, there's this Eye..." Rubinek said. ## JUNE'S TOP 10 VAUGHN, HAWKS KEEP CLUBS HOPPING

Thanks to the Vince Vaughn comedy shooting in Chicago, the Blackhawks' nightly Stanley Cup celebrations and the warmer weather, June was a big month for celebrity sightings in Chicago. Here's a look at which spots attracted the most—and biggest—celebs in June in the About Last Night Rankings.

» Look for the About Last Night Rankings the first Tuesday of every month on chicagotribune.com/aboutlastnight.

1. The Underground

Celebs: John Mayer, Channing Tatum, Boston Celtics' Paul Pierce, Outkast rapper Big Boi, Patrick Kane, ex-"Girls Next Door" star Bridget Marquardt.

The entire Hawks team 24 hours after their Stanley Cup victory and a visit from Mayer and Tatum? We have a winner.

2. Cuvee

Celebs: Nick Cannon, Vince Vaughn, Kane, "Superbad" actor Christopher Mintz-Plasse, Frank Thomas, Backstreet Boy Howie Dorough. I saw Cannon DJ here, Kane dance on his seat and Dorough by the bar—and that was all in one night.

BEST OF THE REST

Sunda (Piven, "Step Up" actress Jenna Dewan), Lumen (New York Jets' Braylon Edwards, Cubs' Aramis Ramirez), Cubs game/Wrigley Field (Adam Carolla, Cedric The Entertainer), Jbar/The James Hotel (Pharrell, Phoenix Suns' Amare Stoudemire), Epic (Stoudemire, Utah Jazz's Deron Williams).

3. Hub 51

Celebs: Adam Lambert, Los Angeles Angels' Torii Hunter, Cubs' Derrek Lee, White Sox's Andruw Jones, Dorough, ex-"Heroes" actor Greg Grunberg. If you see someone at Hub with a goatee or fu manchu, he probably is a baseball player. This place is loaded with them.

4. Rockit Bar & Grill/River North

Celebs: Jeremy Piven, "Hills" star Audrina Patridge, Lupe Fiasco, Kane, White Sox GM Kenny Williams, N.E.R.D.'s Chad Hugo. You can usually count on a Piven sighting at Rockit when he's in town, but you probably already knew that.

5. Joe's Seafood, Prime Steak & Stone Crab

Celebs: Pharrell Williams, Bears' Lovie Smith and Greg Olsen, Bill and Giuliana Rancic, Hawks coach Joel Quenneville. Pharrell liked his dinner at Joe's so much, he was back for lunch the next day.

6. Enclave

Celebs: Lil' Kim, Mintz-Plasse, singer Jason Derulo, Bulls' Joakim Noah and Luol Deng. Any place that hosts Queen Bee and McLovin in a span of two weeks has to be on the list.

7. Mercadito

Celebs: Jay Cutler, Ludacris, Vaughn, Kane, ex-Hawk Adam Burish. This Mexican restaurant opened in September and Luda's already eaten here three times.

8. The Fifty/50

Celebs: Dallas Mavericks' Shawn Marion, ex-NBA star Antoine Walker, White Sox's Jake Peavy, Burish, ex-Hawk Dustin Byfuglien, Fire's John Thorrington. This sports bar has a few famous investors (New York Yankees' Curtis Granderson) and several famous patrons.

9. Bull & Bear

Celebs: Kane, ex-Hawks Kris Versteeg and Andrew Ladd, Bears' Julius Peppers, New Orleans Saints' Pierre Thomas. Yes, another Kane sighting. His liver took a worse beating last month than Duncan Keith's teeth.

10. Manor

Celebs: Vaughn, Denver Broncos' Brady Quinn, Good Charlotte's Benji and Joel Madden, Burish, All Time Low. Quinn, Joel and Benji Madden still are considered stars even though they haven't done much in years.

SIGHTINGS

Grey
GETTY IMAGES FILE

» "Entourage" actress and adult film star Sasha Grey had dinner Saturday at The Spot in Uptown.

» Scottie Pippen threw a surprise party for his wife at Japonais on Saturday.

» The Bulls' Joakim Noah partied at The Underground on Saturday. The Boston Celtics' Paul Pierce was there June 27 after his dinner at SushiSamba Rio.

» Julia Jones, who plays the lone she-wolf in "The Twilight Saga: Eclipse," made a surprise appearance at AMC River East and Regal City North movie theaters Friday to introduce the film.

» Rob Thomas had a private dinner at Joe's Seafood, Prime Steak & Stone Crab on Thursday while in Chicago for his performance at the Taste of Chicago (Thomas requested Eli's Cheesecake for his dressing room at the Taste).

» Knicks coach Mike D'Antoni also was spotted at Joe's that night.

Murray

THE DIGIT:

$82.5 million

That's how much "The Twilight Saga: Eclipse" made over the Fourth of July weekend, easily making it the No. 1 movie at the box office.

Leno's ratings going south

Less than six months after Jay Leno returned to hosting "The Tonight Show," the show's ratings are the lowest they've been since 1992, Variety reports. For the second quarter of this year, the average total audience declined to 4 million viewers from 5 million last year. "The Tonight Show" still beat "Late Show With David Letterman" in the adults-18-to-49 demo, as well as in total audience.

Friendly confines for Dave Matthews

In case you missed it over the extended holiday weekend, Dave Matthews Band announced Friday that the party rockers would close out their tour with Jason Mraz at Wrigley Field on Sept. 17 and 18. Tickets go on sale at 10 a.m. July 17.

Serena shines

Serena Williams says she wanted to look like her sister, Venus, when she was young. "She's totally different. I'm super curvy," the tennis star tells Harper's Bazaar. "I have big boobs and this massive butt. She's tall and she's like a model and she fits everything." Growing up, she found herself "wanting to be" her sister. "Since I don't look like every other girl, it takes awhile to be OK with that—to be different. But different is good." Yes, it is.

Toon time

"Toy Story 3" became the No. 2 Pixar movie ever over the weekend as it topped $300 million. What is No. 1 for Pixar? Text "pix" followed by the number of your choice below to 87708. We'll send you a message telling you if you got the answer right.

'Blood' type talk

Dirty Dolly
Dolly Parton isn't about to rip on Miley Cyrus for her sexy outfits. "I think she's beautiful. I love her. She's trying to grow up, you know. I remember when I was horny and young," Parton told "Access Hollywood." "When you were what?" "Access" asked. "Horny and young," Parton repeated. "I'm still horny!"

Supergroup ?uest
?uestlove and Amy Winehouse are making a long-distance connection. The Roots drummer told spinner.com that he and the troubled British songstress are creating a supergroup, but it's been tough getting together because of her visa problems. "The closest she can come to the States is Jamaica," he said, adding that they've been "Skyping the [expletive] out of each other."
